Arquitectonica

Bernardo Fort-Brescia, FAIA

Arquitectonica is an architecture, interior design and planning firm that began in Miami in 1977 as an experimental studio. Led by Bernardo Fort-Brescia and Laurinda Spear, the studio has evolved into a worldwide practice, combining the creative spirit of the principals with the efficiency of delivery and reliability of a major architectural firm.

Bernardo Fort-Brescia is a founding principal of Arquitectonica. A native of Lima, he did his early studies in Peru and Europe. He then studied architecture and urban planning at Princeton University and received a Master of Architecture from Harvard University, where he later taught. He first came to Miami in 1975 to teach at the University of Miami. By 1977 he founded Arquitectonica with a group of young architects and set up a studio in Coconut Grove. Within two years, Arquitectonica's work was widely published around the world. Bernardo Fort-Brescia led the charge of expanding the firm across the country and abroad. The firm is known as one of the pioneers of globalization in the architecture profession. The firm's designs have defined modern Miami with projects that have carried the banner of Miami architecture around the world with skyscrapers, opera houses, resorts and new cities.

Hugh Dutton Associes

Since its inception in 1995, Dutton has welcomed a group of passionate and experienced designers who specialize in architectural and engineering works in his Paris-based office. The team strives to create a synthesis of poetic intent and physical reality, and has the power to resolve complexities with cultural and technical diversity.

The HDA team work as architects, engineers, and design consultants, both independently and in collaboration with other architects and designers. Each project, from individual details to long-span structures, begins with a clear architectural idea with its own specific story to tell. The successful development of the idea is built on a thorough understanding of technical constraints.

Richardson Sadeki

Richardson Sadeki is an internationally recognized boutique studio specializing in architecture, interior design, and brand identity. Founded in 1999 by Clarissa Richardson and Heidar Sadeki in New York City, the studio has satellite offices in Los Angeles, Miami, and Hong Kong.

Richardson graduated from the Bartlett School of Architecture, University of London with honors before earning a Masters of Architecture at Princeton University. Sadeki, who had completed a degree in Film Studies at SUNY Purchase, New York, also received a Masters of Architecture at Princeton.
